

The clock was turned back at Chapel last Sunday when Mrs. Clews and Miss MacCallum both appeared at the service. No change : just the same : both, we think, wondering why they ever decided that boys, big and little, were getting to be too much for them. Just for good measure the complement of the pews on the left of the organ was filled by Miss Gill, who rarely misses a service. It may be remembered that Miss MacCallum, who had been a member of the staff since 1912, left four years ago and was replaced by Mrs. Boyle. The following year Mrs. Clews, who had come at the same time as Miss MacCallum, turned over her charges in the Preparatory School to Miss Rayner. While we're on this subject you might be interested to know that Miss Morrisette is still in charge of the Infirmary.

Mention of the Infirmary leads us to admit that there are three cases of whooping cough in temporary residence there, but the epidemic appears to have been stopped at that figure. As a result of the whoops the Prep School did not come to Chapel yesterday morning, and instead of Mr. Page at the organ we heard the service played through by 14 year old Ross Smith, who with Jonny Robinson of the Prep, is an efficient understudy.

There must be something about the Prep that induces air mindedness. In our first bulletin we noted that Henry Holden three years a Prep master, had left and is a Pilot Officer in the R.C.A.F. and is now overseas. Of Mr. Page's three sons, Wally is a Sergeant Pilot in the R.C.A.F., Len is training for the Fleet Air Arm, and Bern is in the British Air Ministry in Canada. If the Prep is for the sky, the Upper School, it would appear, is for the sea. Mr. Love, in his ninth year as master here, and housemaster of Chapman House, and Mr. Glass, who came here last year as a master, and had been here as a boy, have been accepted by the Navy and will start their training after Christmas.

It is rumoured that Humphrey Porrit, an Ashbury master, and a graduate of Bishop's University, will replace Oggie Glass, and that the School has secured an M.A. and Ph.D. with three years of archaeological research in Greece behind him, to take over Mr. Love's job.

Since the end of the football season there have been daily gym and boxing creases for the whole school. The gym competition is scheduled for the end of the Lent term, and the boxing for the summer term.

The annual senior and junior cross country races were run in early November over a new course. A total of 48 boys ran from the school to the Experimental Farm on the other side of the river, and thence climbed into the hilly country beyond, where they had to contend with various slopes, fences, streams and swamps, not to mention an inch of snow over all. Rowe won the senior race with Lemieux a close second, and Finley came in then seconds ahead of Andy Hugessen in the junior.

In the race to get the roof of the new Recreation Room on before the snow came in earnest, the roof won comfortably, and at the moment of writing the building looks pretty complete from the outside. Green shingled roof, walls of light-coloured half logs, and a row of eight windows in the front overlooking the first team fields. Inside, the sheeting of the walls is complete, while work is going on at the moment on the stone fire-place and chimney.

The sixth forms attended a talk a week ago by Major Ney of the Overseas Education League. The lecture, on the defence of Britain, was intensely interesting, illustrated as it was with films supplied by the British Ministry of Information.

Talking of talks - the Head's speech on Thanksgiving Day was commented on in newspaper editorials from coast to coast, and he is slated to address the Canadian Club of Montreal early in the New Year.

And talking of the Head, his father, Sir Wyly Grier, is spending the winter in Lennoxville, and is holding small art classes in the school, where he has his studio. We have already seen some fine results in charcoal studies by Adams, Lynn, Macdonald and Whitehead.

The following won colours on the first football team: Sewell (Ian, Captain), Lynn (Cleghorn Cup for most useful man on team), Sheppard, Evans, Lemieux, Day, Williamson, The Fishers, (Ned and Jake), Jenkins, Powell, and Shuter.

2nd Team - McMaster (Capt.) Lorimer, Morkill, Childs, Hurst, Hampson, Hunt, Christie, Rowe, Purvis, Dohan, Horniman.

Subs for 1st Team were Finley, Price, Davis, McMaster, Horniman.

One news item that has trickled through to us is that there are 11 Old Boys in one regiment in the Far East.

Work on the School War Book is progressing slowly. Below is a list of names so far included. Do you know of any more? We have addresses for those names underlined. Send us a card with any information that might help, names or addresses.
